LIFT-OFF!

A brand new website

Listening to our clients

In order to keep up with technological developments as well as demands from customers and clients alike, we have made some changes to our website.

Enhancing functionality

In particular, as the only Destination Service Provider in London to share relevant market research, we have included functionality as part of our online platform to search and access market research and newsletters much more efficiently.

Sharing market insights – for free

We are delighted to continue to invest in sharing best practice and relevant up to date research with the broader relocation industry. We always challenge ourselves to push the boundaries and set new global standards of excellence for local destination services in London and the Home Counties. We hope you enjoy using and accessing our brand new website!

So what's new?

Improved navigation

In updating the website, we have taken great care in ensuring its structure was intuitive and clear. We have limited the number of pages to those we felt were essential.

Resource Page

All newsletters, news, and more importantly the ongoing research material developed by R3 is now on one page, with intuitive search functionality included in it.

Client Access

Clients, assignees and providers can access our operational portal via this page. Our leading Data Management and tracking technology is compliant with Data Protection legislation and also provides the flexibility that our clients and partners require in accessing the system according to their needs.

Knowledge repository

R3Location is the only destination services company in London producing frequent free research about the relocation market. This section is all about sharing this knowledge with the broader industry. As such, we have concentrated our development effort into producing a knowledge repository about the market

RESOURCE PAGE

Now comes with filter and search functionality

and destination services.

Newsletters, news and research

All our historical newsletters, including valuable research about the destination services and real estate market in London have been preserved, and have received a face lift. Search functionality has been added, and accessing material has been improved.

KNOWLEDGE DATABASE

Our newsletters are now easy to access

Comment on our newsletters

We are always grateful for the feedback we receive on our newsletters and research. As such, we thought we would include an additional functionality for you to be able to provide direct feedback and also initiate online conversations and discussions about the material we produce.

COMMENT ON OUR POSTS

A comment and Like button have now been introduced under each post

Join our team!

R3Location is growing, and opportunities in various aspects of the business arise on a regular basis in order to meet the service delivery requirements of our clients. Having enthusiasm, drive, attention to detail and process is essential, as is a solid knowledge of the residential letting market in the UK generally and London in particular – but you do not have to have previous relocation experience. You will be joining a senior team that is determined to make a difference and to ensure every relocation experience is smooth, efficient and of top quality. You will also be joining a fun loving group of people who don't take themselves too seriously but take ownership in each and every relocation they manage, and fundamentally believe that exceptional client service is at the heart of everything we do.
