Susan Neely, a former special assistant to president George W Bush and former CEO at some of America's largest organisations

“ For me, buying a two-bedroom flat in Pimlico, central London, with the help of the relocation experts R3Location, had a more nostalgic motivation. Immediately after I graduated from university, I took what amounted to a gap year on a student visa and worked at the BBC as a typist, living in a small bedsit in Mornington Crescent. It was one of the happiest times of my life and since then I've always wanted to own a small slice of this wonderful city. When I thought about retiring, London was where I wanted to be – I love the culture, the food and visiting the theatre.
